CITY INTELLIGENCE.

Political.—Last night an enthusiastic and well-attended meeting of the friends of the Union Republican nominees residing in Chester, Delaware, and with various counties, forming the Seventh Congressional District, was held at Eagle, Chester county. It took place in an open field, about a quarter of a mile from the railway station.

On this evening erected a platform, which was tastefully decorated with the national colors, tocher, and bouquets of evergreen. Delegations from the neighboring villages were present in large force, and these also carried torches and transparencies bearing the names of the Republican national nominees and suitable inscriptions. Bands of music also accompanied many of these delegations, and the scene presented was most inspiring and encouraging.

The Republicans of Philadelphia, attended in a body, and were received with enthusiastic cheering. They did not arrive, however, until nearly ten o'clock, owing to an obstruction on the railroad, caused by the collision of two freight trains near Radnor Station. The Invidious had with them a fine band, paraded nearly five hundred men, and looked remarkably well.

Dr. J. B. Wood, of West Chester, presided at the meeting, which was eloquently addressed by Dr. Frank Taylor, James J. Craig, Esq., and Senator Wortham of West Chester, and Dr. Spencer Miller, Esq., of West Chester.

On the return of the Invidious to the city, they proceeded to the residence of General Hector Tyndale, 25th street, above Arch, and attended in a body, and were received with enthusiastic cheering. The compliment of a serenade, General Schurz, Colonel J. W. Forney, and General Tyndale made a few remarks, returning their thanks.

Yesterday afternoon, a formal welcome was extended to General Carl Schurz, in a picnic given at Silberburg, Twenty-fifth and Coates streets. The weather was not calculated to attract, but notwithstanding the alternation of sunshine and rain, there was an immense crowd congregated at the spot. In the centre of the grove a stand was erected, and this was gaily decorated with red, white, and blue, while from either corner of the platform the German flag was suspended. About 3 o'clock the meeting was organized with Mr. Frederick Shied as President.

Colonel John W. Forney was the first speaker. After complimenting the Germans for their firm stand in favor of human liberty, he reviewed the issues of the present campaign, and urged that the future of the country depended upon the success of the Republican cause. In regard to Rosecrans' self-appointed mission, he regretted that the General should so far forget his manhood as to treat with rebels upon a basis that left no protection for the white Union men of the South. After an elaborate review of the Democratic doctrine, he closed with the assertion that the reaction in favor of Republican principles had commenced, and he had no doubt of the success of the Republican candidates.

Mr. Rockey next followed in a speech, in German. While he was addressing the people the cheers announced the approach of the guest of the day, General Carl Schurz soon appeared, and after a short address in German, he spoke in English. He regretted his inability owing to other engagements, to make a lengthy or finished address. His experience thus far in the campaign had convinced him that on the 13th of October, or November 3d, when the battle for liberty was fought and won, the Germans would be found to have fairly won much of the glory. (Cheers.) In regard to the policy of reconstruction, he said that the Democrats charged the Republicans with maintaining a despotism equal to that of Austria and Russia. But he recommended the Democratic orators to read some book of history, and they would find that the conqueror had treated the conquered very different from what had been done in the United States. Across the water, men said to be rebels had been hanged by the thousands, while the wilds of Siberia were covered with the bones of those who had been driven into exile. If it were true that the Republicans had inaugurated a despotism, would not see such men as Forney and his companions dictating to the people their candidate for President. Instead of this, they would long ago have been hanging from the gallows. (Cheers.) Wade Hampton would have been butting the dust, and Wise would have been food for the worms, instead of pretensions to the success of the "lost cause." General Schurz concluded at some length, denouncing the Democratic party, and reviewing its course with regard to slavery.

Hon. Leonard Myers followed in a short address, and was succeeded by Hon. Galusha A. Brown, whose address was interrupted by a heavy shower of rain, about 4 1/2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A meeting of the Democratic citizens of the Ninth Ward was held last evening at the corner of Twenty-second and Market streets. Charles M. Lewis was chosen President, James H. Burd, Vice-President, John G. Newbold Secretary, R. S. Tazewell was then introduced and addressed the meeting. He was followed by R. S. Temple, T. Oehlschlaeger, and others.

A Donor New to Philadelphia.—A fortnightly two respectable, well-dressed young men, dressed in the uniform No. 215 Gold street, and fitted it up handsomely as a office, displaying from the doorway a sign bearing in golden letters, "John C. Barnard & Co., Exchange Brokers." About noon yesterday one of the firm purchased from Messrs. W. Whelan & Co., brokers on Third street, one hundred dollars in gold coin, which he directed to be sent to the office in Gold street. A youth in the firm's employ was sent with the specie. He was promptly paid in currency, and was then to leave, when the man who had brought the gold told the youth that he would like him to bring him $5000 worth of United States 5-20 bonds, and gave him an order to that effect. The money received for the gold was $1000. The youth, who was by the name of "John C. Barnard & Co.," returned to "Barnard & Co." The package he gave to one of the firm, who dropped it into a box which was sitting on the counter. He told the youth to wait a short time, as he would have to draw the money from the bank. The other "partner" directly afterwards made an excuse to go out, requesting the youth to watch the office for a minute or two. The youth remained with his eyes intently fixed upon the box for full ten minutes, when his suspicions were aroused, and he took a peep into the box and found that it was bottomless and boundless. He informed the Messrs. Barnard & Co., who placed the matter in the hands of Chief Detective Langdon, who with Barnard & Co.'s office a visit. He discovered a funnel leading from the box under the counter to the partition separating the vestibule from the office. A hole was cut in the partition; it was concealed by a door which was going out the first man took the package from the tunnel and was joined by his partner, and they left their plunder.

THE GREAT BASE-BALL MATCH.—THE PHILADELPHIANS VICTORIOUS.—The first of the three games between the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, and the Atlantic Club, of Brooklyn, for the championship, was played yesterday on the grounds of the former club, corner of Fifteenth street and Columbia avenue. It was witnessed by at least ten thousand spectators. The frequent showers interfered somewhat with the game. The ninth innings commenced in the midst of a heavy rain, and the ninth innings the Athletic retired with 0, the Athletics then took the bat, and had made four runs, with two men out, when the umpire called "game." The ground had become so wet as to prevent the holding of the ball. The score, therefore, stands with 0 for the Athletics, and 4 for the Atlantics. The playing was excellent, and commentators in base ball matters say that it was the finest game of ball that has ever been played in this city. The following is the score:—
